Pete Fuscaldo is Managing Partner of Leech Tishman and a member of the Corporate and Taxation Practice Groups, as well as the Construction Group. Pete is based in the Pittsburgh office and represents diverse, established, and emerging privately-held companies, often serving as general business counsel in both day-to-day legal matters and strategic transactions. Pete chairs the Leech Tishman Management Committee.

Pete provides counsel on a full range of complex business issues. He advises clients on matters related to entity formation and operation, the tax and legal structure of business acquisitions and dispositions, corporate finance matters, venture capital funding, and private equity transactions. Pete counsels businesses on multifaceted restructuring and recapitalization transactions involving both debt and equity. Pete has a deep understanding of financial accounting, as well as business and tax law, which allows him to be creative in finding solutions to otherwise challenging deals.

Pete has earned the reputation of being resourceful, pragmatic, and cost-effective for his clients. His business sensibilities and no-nonsense approach have become the hallmark of his over 25 years of practice. He recognizes the importance of defining his client's optimal outcome by crafting legal and business strategies and executing to achieve it.
