

Oil and Gas

Leech Tishman's Oil and Gas attorneys are equipped to serve companies throughout the oil and gas supply chain, and possess a depth of knowledge in matters ranging from land acquisition and corporate finance, to employment and environmental issues.

In Brief

Our Oil and Gas team is comprised of a group of business lawyers with deep expertise in the oil, gas, and energy sectors. Understanding the industry—from the start with title work, to the end with sales, distributions and refining—enables our attorneys to provide sound legal and business counsel to our clients and, when necessary, to efficiently utilize our other practice areas, such as litigation, employment, environmental, and OSHA.

Our Oil and Gas team spans multiple practice groups and understands the numerous and ever-changing legal issues encountered throughout the industry. Our clients routinely look to us for practical business advice when making complex decisions related to land and title, transportation and water services, corporate strategy, financing, litigation, and navigating employment, environmental, and health and safety regulations.
