

Prosecution and Defense of Avoidance Actions in Bankruptcy

Leech Tishman's attorneys are experienced in the complex legal area of bankruptcy avoidance actions. Whether you are a creditor or debtor, our attorneys are highly experienced with both sides of this complicated area of law and can assist you in resolving the issue in a timely manner.

Our team has counselled creditors looking to pursue legal action against debtors that have transferred money or property prior to filing for bankruptcy in an effort to conceal those assets. We also assist domestic, foreign, and international clients in avoidance action litigation, focusing on a cost-effective, timely solution that protects our clients' financial interests and reputation.

Because we have represented parties in both sides of this area of litigation, we are particularly knowledgeable about the nuances and complexities in developing a strong legal strategy that produces results.

We have defended clients in the manufacturing, real estate, healthcare, education, and construction industries in federal and state courts across the country and internationally. We have also represented creditors seeking relief, such as financial institutions, lenders, and banks.
