Restrictive Covenants / Non-Competes

Leech Tishman has a depth of experience representing businesses with respect to restrictive covenants and non-competes. Our attorneys are well-versed on the importance of protecting clients' business trade secrets and proprietary information.

We understand that deterring a current or former employee from giving a competitor access to your company's successful business strategies is vital to maintaining the integrity of the company.

Leech Tishman's attorneys regularly counsel clients on risk management and assessment, advising them on appropriate, legal use of restrictive covenants to protect their assets.
