LEECH | TISHMAN

Wage and Hour

Leech Tishman has a diverse background in counseling businesses on the complex wage and hour federal and state laws and regulations.

Our attorneys defend employers in all areas of wage and hour law, including wage payment and worker classification class action defense.

Utilizing our in-depth understanding of the Fair Labor Standards Act and other federal and state laws, we work with employers across the country to assess risk and mitigate any procedures that fall out of compliance, potentially resulting in costly investigations and litigation.

Our representation spans almost every industry, including retail, construction, healthcare, and hospitality. With attorneys licensed throughout the country and abroad, our team is able to assist national and global businesses in maintaining compliance across conflicting jurisdictions.