Healthcare Data Privacy & Cybersecurity

Our attorneys advise healthcare clients on the evolving landscape of data privacy and cybersecurity, providing clients with legal advice that prioritizes regulatory compliance and risk mitigation.

Our firm is adept at managing data privacy and cybersecurity concerns regarding the way confidential and protected information is created, stored, and utilized. Hospitals, health systems, healthcare companies, and individuals rely on our attorneys to navigate regulatory compliance standards and advise on best practices to mitigate risk in an industry impacted by complex security breaches and emerging healthcare technologies.

Leech Tishman combines strategic vision with practical advice to guide clients on issues involving the collection, analysis, use, and disclosure of patient information and related data that is obtained from patients and other organizations.
